Letter from Fran Spencer, President

"At the cornerstone of our organization is the Phi Chi Theta Scholarship Program. We have awarded $32,300 in scholarships to members of Phi Chi Theta Fraternity who exemplify scholastic achievement, leadership and commitment to the ideals of Phi Chi Theta."

It hardly seems as though a year has gone by, but here we are encouraging you once again to apply for the various scholarships available from the Phi Chi Theta Educational Foundation. It is only the first quarter of the calendar year 2013, but it is time to begin preparing your materials to receive all the necessary documentation before the May 1st deadline – which will be here before we know it, especially given the very busy schedule of the average collegiate member with part-time work, team meetings, etc.

The members of the judging committee for the scholarships have been selected; the application is on-line; this edition of the e-newsletter contains many helpful hints to get you started on the road to success in preparing your application. Use them to create a winning entry. But it is up to you to do your part by pulling together all of the elements necessary to be selected as one of the winners. Even if you don't win a scholarship the first time you try, the experience will be enlightening. The hardest part seems to be getting those letters of recommendation from employers or busy professors.

While we are on the subject of scholarships, the next opportunity you have to speak to your family members find out from them if any of their employers have a matching program for charitable donations – many companies do, (State Farm, Pepsi and Wells Fargo to name a few) where they match contributions from an individual in their employ. This is a very easy, effortless way that you can contribute to the Foundation and raise funds for future scholarships. All contributions, large and small, are acknowledged and appreciated by the Foundation, whose sole purpose is their mission to provide scholarships and educational opportunities for you, the collegiate member of Phi Chi Theta.

Your contributions can make 2013 a "Lucky 13" year for the Foundation whether it is through a matching contribution, a special Foundation fundraiser by your Chapter or your personal contribution in memory of someone or to mark a special occasion/celebration in your life.

Take a few minutes to review the scholarship application form now, and get YOUR 2013 started on the right track by completing and submitting your application in the months ahead. May 1st will be here before you know it, so make a resolution now to do your application on a timely basis. We know by now most of those other resolutions have been broken, so this is your chance to still have a positive impact on your 2013 year.

Scholarship FAQs

Over the years, aspiring scholarship applicants have asked some really good questions about the Scholarship Program, eligibility and application requirements, and insight into the expectations of a scholarship recipient. As you begin the scholarship application process, we have compiled a list of some of these frequently asked questions to share with you.

Q: When can I apply for a scholarship?

A: The scholarship application is on the Phi Chi Theta web site. You should apply between March 15 and May 1. Your grades through Fall Semester 2012 have to appear on the transcript. In most cases, the Spring Semester 2013 courses you are involved in will also appear on the transcript. If not, you must attach a copy of your Spring Semester 2013 courses you are enrolled in to your application. Note: If you are a transfer student, you need to furnish the transcripts from former Universities/Colleges you attended.

Q: Who is eligible to apply for a scholarship?

A: All members of Phi Chi Theta in good standing are eligible to apply for the scholarships. To qualify for consideration, applicant must be:

- A national member of Phi Chi Theta in good standing. (A member in good standing is an active dues' paying member, collegiate or alum, or Life Member of the organization.)
- A student who has completed at least one semester or two quarters of college in the United States.
- A student who will be enrolled in and attending classes during the forthcoming academic year at an approved college or university in the United States, in pursuit of a degree (Bachelor's, Master's, or Doctoral) in the fields of Business and/or Economics.

Q: I will be returning to school part-time (not taking a full course load) and working fulltime. Can I still apply for a scholarship?

A: Yes. Assuming you meet the qualifications stated above, you can apply for the scholarship.

Q: When should I start filling out the application?

A: As past scholarship recipients will attest to, the sooner you start the application process the better off you will be. It is recommended to start NO LATER THAN April 1.

A: Please visit our web site to download the application, obtain specific information about the supplemental material that is part of the completed package, and the criteria for selection.

Q: Can I apply online?

A: Yes. Send your completed application by e-mail to: PCTEdScholarship@aol.com.

Q: Can I send the official transcript(s) with the scholarship application?

A: No. You must request an official transcript from your Registrar's Office to be mailed directly to the Chair of the Scholarship Committee.

Please Note: An Official Transcript MUST still be sent, via regular mail (USPS), from the University (or Universities) to the Phi Chi Theta Educational Foundation Scholarship Committee, 1886 South Poplar Street, Denver, CO 80224-2271.

Q: Can I send the letters of recommendation with my scholarship application?

A: No. The two (2) letters of recommendation must be sent to the Chair of the Scholarship Committee. Faculty member (required) and either a Phi Chi Theta Fraternity officer, or an employer's letters of recommendation. The letters may be sent by e-mail to PCTEdScholarship@aol.com or by regular mail. The letter from faculty member or employer is to be on letterhead.

Q: How do I know if the Scholarship Chair has received all of the required information?

A: After submitting the application, you may contact the scholarship committee chair. She will also keep you informed, before the deadline, if something is missing.

Q: I've been named one of the scholarship recipients. What do I get, and when do I get it?

A: First off, congratulations on this scholastic and Phi Chi Theta achievement. A check, made out to the University, in the amount of the scholarship award, along with a certificate to proudly display, and a congratulatory letter from the President of the Foundation will be sent to each recipient. The scholarship checks will be mailed in August after the official announcement. The checks should be cashed by the University within 6 months of award.

Q: I've already paid my tuition for the Fall Semester. What do I do with the check?

A: If you have already paid your tuition for the Fall Semester 2013, you have the option of applying the check to the Spring Semester 2014, or request a refund. Please consult with your University Registrar's Office for specifics on applying the check towards your tuition/fees.

Q: Now that I've received a scholarship, what kind of commitments and obligations do I have to Phi Chi Theta?

A: As the saying goes, "Once a Phi Chi Theta, Always a Phi Chi Theta." We hope that receiving a scholarship is a proud scholastic and Phi Chi Theta achievement for you. You are a role model to your fellow sisters and brothers in your chapter and at the National level. As a role model, we hope that you will encourage your fellow sisters and brothers to participate in the Phi Chi Theta Scholarship Program.

Q: If I need additional information on scholarships, do I contact the Scholarship Committee?

A: Yes, write the Phi Chi Theta Educational Foundation, c/o Mary Ellen Lewis, Scholarship Committee Chair, 1886 South Poplar Street, Denver, CO 80334-2271 or e-mail:

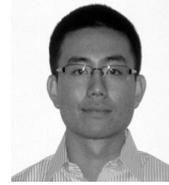

PCTEdScholarship@aol.com, or call Mary Ellen Lewis, 303-757-2535.

Hello Brothers and Sisters! I hope that you all enjoyed your Winter Break, but it's time to start sending those scholarship applications in. So here are a few quick tips:

1. Be honest. - We all know that there are some pretty extraordinary people out there, but some things really are too good to be true. So be yourself, highlight what you're proud of, and don't put too much of a sugar coat on your achievements.
2. Be concise. -Every section has a length limit and as great as your life has been, we do not need to hear the entire story. Stick to the important events, leave out what is not necessary and make sure that you follow the guidelines.
3. Check your grammar. - Not everyone, especially me, is an English Professor. However, it still looks professional and might even give you the edge if you submit a clean and error-free application. Read it over a couple of times, use spell check and keep a consistent format.
4. SEND IN AN APPLICATION!!- This is probably the most important tip that I have for you. It does not matter if you are only a freshman or a pledge and do not have as much experience as a Senior President. That is not necessarily what we look for. How much have you contributed? How much do you want to contribute? How important is Phi Chi Theta to you? You will never even have the opportunity if you do not give yourself a chance and submit an application. So good luck, and have a great semester and 2013!

First of all, thank you for taking the time to apply for a scholarship with the Phi Chi Theta Educational Foundation. I appreciate the time and energy you are investing, not only in the application, but into the academics, extracurricular activities, and examples of leadership that make Phi Chi Theta such an accomplished organization.

When reviewing applications, the first thing I look for is depth of examples. I always prefer to read about one or two specific examples in detail over a laundry list of smaller, disconnected examples. It is a cliché, but quality over quantity stands out when reading applications. When writing about your Phi Chi Theta achievements or contributions to your school and community, detail both what you did and how you did it. Stories that show ownership (e.g., "I led by mobilizing a team", "I persuaded by doing research", etc.) make a stronger case than stories that describe passive participation.

As you write your examples, remember to quantify or qualify the results of your actions wherever possible. Writing about the results brings an application to life. As a reader, results are what signal to me that you participated in activities with goals in mind. For example, writing "As the External Vice President, I led a team of three to reach out to alumni and increased PCT-specific corporate presentations from 2 in the previous semester to 4 in our most recent semester" really helps me understand the outcomes of your leadership.

Overall, I encourage you to think through what I am sure is a long list of accomplishments, and select the few that mean the most to you. Write about them at depth and with equal focus on what you did, how you did it, and what happened as a result. Thank you again for applying and I look forward to reading your application!

When I look at scholarship applications, I always notice spelling and grammar right away. I find typos distracting and sometimes, they can make an essay difficult to follow. However, I also notice the content of the material presented.

I tend to assign higher scores for essays that show a high level of detail and that flow smoothly. Essays that incorporate the ideals or mottos of Phi Chi Theta and show examples of implementation in chapter activities have also been very good in the past.

The manner in which an essay is presented is important as well. Humor, when used appropriately, can make applicants stand out. In general, if an application is put together with care, and your best self is represented, chances are, you have done a great job. My best piece of advice is to start the application process early so that there is plenty of time to gather necessary resources, such as letters of recommendation and university transcripts.

Then, make sure to review the application before submission. You might want to have someone else look it over. By following these strategies, you are certain to put forward the best impression possible—one that could really pay off.

If there is ever a year to start off with the ultimate resolution, 2013 feels like it is “the one”. I have always told people to “think positive”, but I struggled to live my advice as 2012 painfully came to an end. I have also told people to stay away from negative influences. However, it was nearly impossible to exclude the negative news that permeated our lives as 2012 concluded. I am sure we all had some negative things, very personal and close to us, happen in 2012 that tested our positive thinking. Many of us are still worn down from many months of very gloomy economic reports, a very negative presidential campaign, a disastrous East Coast hurricane, a disastrous attack in Benghazi, and an unthinkable elementary school shooting. How can positive thinking have a chance in the face of all that, and more?

The truth be known - it cannot! Positive thinking is only half the equation, while “action” is the other half. Positive thinking and action do not need to be in that order. In fact, there has been much research that has proven that positive actions will lead to positive thinking. If this is truly the case, then we all have more control over our positive thinking than does the news that surrounds us! One research study was quite simple. During the 1970s, James Laird from Clark University in Worcester, MA invited student volunteers to act out specific facial expressions. The volunteers were first told to make an angry face, and then told to make a smiling face. The results were very significant! The volunteers felt significantly happier when they forced their faces into smiles, and much angrier when they were frowning with clenched teeth.

Research has continued, over the years, and has consistently shown that people become their behavior. This means that “action” results in “becoming that behavior”. In other words, by acting positively, we can start feeling or thinking positively. So that brings me back to the “ultimate resolution” for 2013 I want to share with you: “Act Positive”. Let’s explore what “acting positive” looks like in action, for a Phi Chi Theta member:

- 1) Smile! Only you know what you personally gain from being an active Phi Chi Theta member. It is time to aggressively share it! Think about your effort put forth into your organization, the brotherhood and sisterhood, the community activities, and your future as an alumni member. This will turn into a smile that is a gift for everyone you meet. Think about walking into every class (yes, every class) with your best smile!
- 2) Write a Plan! There is magic in writing! When to take action to write down your thoughts, there is an instant commitment to the words you write. Every night, write down what you want to accomplish the following day. This is not your itinerary; this is your Plan of Action (POA) for the day! So instead of “9:00am – 10:15am Finance Class,” Your POA might be “8:55am – walk into class with a smile, sit in the front row, take extraordinary notes, ask two questions during the class, end class with a smile, introduce myself to and thank the professor.
- 3) Dress with Confidence. This is a simple action that results in a new level of confidence. Probably everyone has dressed up to make a class presentation, as well as Phi Chi Theta special events. Remember that bit of increased excitement into your effort, and the increased attentive looks you get from others? Make that a frequent action, if not daily. If you are a blue jeans and T-shirt person, take it up a notch and make it Kakis and a collar shirt. Of course, add your smile, and you will feel more confident to take on any task!

- 4) Act Healthy! No matter how busy our schedules are, we can act healthy by a little exercise, eating healthy, etc. Make it part of your daily lifestyle, beginning with your nightly POA for the next day. At the very least, get a pedometer and find out how many steps you take in an average day. Then, do things to increase your steps, such as take stairs instead of elevators, park in the outlying spaces, etc. Better yet, share your healthy action plans with a friend and be accountable to each other. By expending a bit more energy, you will gain more energy!
- 5) Act Accountable to Yourself! At the end of each day, just before you start writing your POA for the next day, write down the day's success. It could be something "big" like getting the interview you have been going after, or it could be "small" like making someone smile, just by greeting them with yours! In either case, congratulate yourself for taking action that made you a success today! You are now ready to plan for the next great day!

Above all, act with the ideals of Phi Chi Theta. Be prepared to stand out from the crowd by acting positive. That is a good thing and, believe me, people will notice. You may even start to notice that people around you start acting more positive!

Greetings from Phi Chi Theta Fraternity
Saundra Finley, Executive Director

I'm often asked to explain the differences between the Phi Chi Theta Fraternity and the Phi Chi Theta Educational Foundation. Many assume that the two entities are the same. I explain that although we are both Phi Chi Theta and run by Phi Chi Theta Sisters and Brothers, we are two separate entities.

Usually the question is why a donation to the Fraternity isn't tax deductible but a donation to the Foundation is. I explain that within the IRS tax codes, the Fraternity is a 501(c)(7) and the Foundation is a 501(c)(3). The Fraternity is a "not-for-profit" entity and although we have some tax exemptions, donations are not tax deductible. The Foundation is a "non-profit" entity and donations are tax deductible. We encourage the chapters to make their donations to the Foundation so that their donors can claim this tax deduction.

Although we have different tax classifications, the life blood of both the Fraternity and the Foundation is the same and that is YOU, our member. Without our members, neither can exist.

The Fraternity and the Foundation work together as PARTNERS to provide services to our members. The Fraternity provides support, training and programs like the Mentoring Program, Regional Meetings and the biennial National Meetings. The Foundation provides much needed scholarships and helps provide quality educational programming at our conferences.

It is a partnership built on trust, mutual understanding and respect. The Executive Board of the Fraternity and the Trustees for the Foundation are all members like you, who have chosen as alumni to dedicate their time and resources to continue to support the causes of Phi Chi Theta.
